DEMAND LONG DEATH PROBE

Here and There

Editorial By ALEX. H. WASHBURN

SIGNIFICANT are the news reports estimating the wealth of the late Senator Huey P. Long up to 2½ million dollars. Political wealth is generally exaggerated—but any man of affairs, who owns his own business, runs his own farm, or otherwise manages the support of dependants, knows for a certainty that Long died with considerable wealth. For wealth is one of the necessities of power, any power, whether private or political. Long's personal estate, therefore whether two million, one million, or a hundred thousand, is an effective criticism of the wealth-sharing policies which he advocated.

Farm Income This Year Is Largest of Last 5 Years

6½ Billions Compared With 10½ in 1929, and 8½ in 1930

LOW POINT AT 1932

Cotton Subsidy Plan This Year to Cost Government 75 Million

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The Bureau of Agricultural Economics predicted Wednesday that the nation's farmers will have a cash income of $6,700,000,000 in 1935, the largest in five years. After reaching a peak of $10,479,000,000 in 1929, cash farm income slipped to $8,451,000,000 in 1930, $3,899,000,000 in 1931, and to $4,328,000,000 in 1932. The figure for last year was $6,387,000,000, and for 1933, $5,117,000,000. Statistics today included farm benefit payments by the AAA, but most of the increase this year was attributed to a considerable rise in cash income from sale of livestock. $121,076,487 in benefits. Total benefit payments to adjustment contract signers in 1933 were $131,076,487, compared to $196,425,206 in 1934, and an official estimate of $385,480,625 for the calendar year 1935. These benefit payments, however, did not include the more than $100,000,000 spent by the AAA last year for purchase of livestock in drought areas. The Bureau of Agricultural Economics

Must Keep Sales Slip for Cotton

Farmers Selling Now Should Keep Record for 12-Cent Adjustment

Cotton producers who may wish to sell their cotton immediately and whose crop is already being harvested and ginned for sale are urged by J. L. Hiler, Nevada county agent, to obtain and keep sales slips from buyers, so as to be sure to have adequate sales records on which the government will be able to make adjustment payments under the new loan and payment plan. The necessary forms upon which payments of the difference between the average price and 12 cents will be disbursed are being prepared. In the interim, producers who desire to market their crop are advised to compile a careful record which will include a description of the cotton sold, the buyer to whom the cotton was sold, the date of sale and the names of the parties, including tenants, who have an interest in the cotton sold. It is especially important that producers should obtain from the buyer a memorandum of sale which contains the date of sale and the gross weight of the bale or bales sold.

Pious and Literary in Peace, Selassie a Notable Fighter

Mussolini Polished Man of the World—Selassie a Native Battler

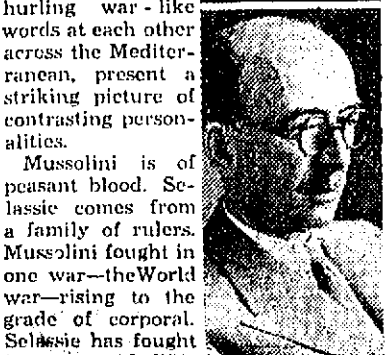

ACTION, NOT WORDS

Mussolini Rose by Typical Civilized Means—Selassie by Bloody Warfare

The Conquering Lion is one of the many romantic names of Haile Selassie I, amazing Emperor of Ethiopia, who now stands in defiance of Italy's military might. . . . In three timely articles, Milton Bronner has told the colorful story of the Ethiopian king and kingdom. Today's article is the second in the series.

By MILTON BRONNER
NEA Service Staff Writer

Haile Selassie I of Ethiopia and Premier Benito Mussolini of Italy.

Words at each other across the Mediterranean, present a striking picture of contrasting personalities. Mussolini is of peasant blood. Selassie comes from a family of rulers. Mussolini fought in one war—the World war—rising to the grade of corporal. Selassie has fought in many rebellions wars in his own country, but knows little or nothing of what war with modern murderous weapons can be. In case of war, Mussolini would sit in Rome, but Selassie, after the medieval habit of his race, would lead his troops into battle.

Mussolini is an educated man of the world, who speaks Italian, French, German and English. He has worked in various countries beside his native Italy, has in his time wielded a trenchant editorial pen, built up the powerful Fascist organization, held crowds by his oratory and proved cool and wise in international conferences. Haile Selassie is an educated man only by Ethiopian standards. He speaks Amharic and French. He knows the outside world by a brief trip to Europe in 1924. He has led his people rather as a fighting man than as an orator.

Emperor Is Very Pious. Mussolini is typical Italian. Selassie is not typical Ethiopian, for in his country there are many races. But he is representative of the ruling class. He is small in stature, with the delicate hands of an artist. His features are also delicately carved and with a decided Semitic cast. The skin is the color of browned ancient ivory. His voice is soft and well modulated. He is a pious Christian according to the ancient form practiced in his country and whose church is akin to and connected with the Coptic Church of Egypt. The Emperor's piety is declared to be exemplary. Each day, assisted by the "Father of his Soul," he spends an hour at his devotional exercises. He observes the many rigorous fasts prescribed by his church. With him it is genuine religion, but if it were not, it would be decidedly good policy, because the clergy are a mighty and powerful element in the country. The Emperor combines his love of religion with his devotion to the literature of Ethiopia. He has installed at Addis Ababa a very fine private press. From this he has issued works of St. John Shrysostom and Isaac the Ascetic. With his own prefaces and notes, they have proved a priceless loan to students of Amharic literature.

Clevery Is Vexing Matter. As ruler aside from possible rebellions by haughty chiefs in distant parts of the country, he has had two preoccupations—slavery and Islam. He pledged that his country would abolish slavery. It was impossible to set a time limit and none was fixed. There are those who believe that Haile Selassie is doing all he can to keep his promise. But it is a slow business because of the ease with which rules can be violated. In a country where there is only one railway line and a few good roads, it is hard to keep tabs on distant corners.

Ethiopia has a very small national army and that is in and about the capital city of Addis Ababa. What soldiers there are in the remote provinces are chiefly the retainers of the native Rases. And many of these native rulers do not care two hoots what the League Nations thinks about slavery and what has been promised.

The question of the Moslem faith is a

Evelyn Hoey Shot to Death—Rogers, Standard Oil Scion, Is Detained

Copyright Associated Press
DOWNTOWN, Pa.—(AP)—Evelyn Hoey, blonde torch singer of Broadway and Paris, was found shot to death early Thursday at the home of Henry H. Rogers, Jr., 28 son of the late Standard Oil multimillionaire.

Rogers was brought here on a technical charge of suspicion of murder. Police said he had been drinking and the tragedy followed a party at the farmhouse.

The girl's death was first reported to be a suicide.

The death of the girl who popularized the song, "What Is This Thing Called Love?" in the show "Fifty Million Frenchmen" in which she was co-starred with Betty Compton (Mrs. James J. Walker) was first reported as suicide.

Rogers said there was an argument during the night and that the girl, who won Broadway prominence, playing the lead in "You're Truly," went upstairs alone.

"We heard a shot," Rogers said, "and when we ran upstairs we found her lying on the floor."

A single bullet had entered the left side of the 25-year-old girl's head, passed completely through and embedded itself in the wall.

At her feet police found a .45 caliber pearl handled pistol. On the bed was an automatic covered with blood, and in a corner of the room was a sawed off shotgun.

Rogers, whose 29 years have been packed with adventure seeking, was taken to Chester county prison. Chief of Police Chester Glisson and Detective Francis Grubb were the officers who said Rogers had been drinking.

Word of the Minneapolis-born actress' death came from Frank Catano, Rogers' chauffeur. He drove to near-by Guthrieville early Thursday and said a suicide had taken place at the Indian run farm of Rogers.

Catano first told his story to Dr. Thomas Richmond, and he declined to make the journey to the farm when his wife objected on the grounds that she disliked the reputation of the place.

It was then that Catano came here and notified Chief Glisson. While the police chief was awaiting the arrival of Deputy Coroner Lawrence Cox, Rogers' attorney, Joseph Clark, rushed in.

Federal Action Is Urged on Report of Murder Cabal

Long Faction Believes Dr. Weiss Struck for Party of Conspirators

FATAL "BLACKBALL"

Story Is That Weiss Drew Unlucky Slip—and Went to His Suicide

BATON ROUGE, La.—(AP)—While two laboring grave diggers were preparing the resting place in which Senator Huey P. Long, following his burial at 4 o'clock Thursday afternoon, is destined to spend his eternal sleep, one of the senator's closest friends demanded a federal investigation of his slaying.

Thousands continued to file past Long's bier as he lay in state in the capitol rotunda, and hosts of people from all over Louisiana and other states arrived in Baton Rouge for a tremendous funeral in the shadow of the statehouse.

At 9 o'clock Thursday morning, strung out in single file to pass Senator Long's bier, the crowd extended a quarter of a mile in length and was growing steadily.

Was It a "Blackball"?

NEW ORLEANS, La.—While the most powerful survivors of Huey P. Long, sole proprietor of Louisiana, were weeping for him and fighting one another to succeed him, every police and investigating body in the state was checking an amazing story about the real reason for his assassination.

On the surface, the story sounds fantastic. But, because on every street corner here people are saying that Dr. Carl Austin Weiss, the enigmatic murderer of Long, "got the blackball," it is being seriously and thoroughly investigated.

The story goes that a secret group of intellectual patriots, infuriated at Long's policies and fearful that he would, in effect, become entirely independent of the United States of America coolly decided to assassinate Long from the picture. They formed, so the reports have it, a secret "jury of death." They met in secret conclave, sentenced Long to death unanimously, and then drew lots to see who should be the assassin—which meant suicide, because the assassin of Long was certain to be killed by his bodyguards.

The story as it reached police in Louisiana is that the little doctor, moody dreamer who was educated in Vienna and who was convinced that Long should die "the blackball."

Fantastic Story Credited. The Long leaders believe that a secret "jury of death" doomed Huey and selected his assassin.

"I am confident Senator Long was killed as a result of a murder conspiracy," Earl Christenberry, secretary to the late senator, said late Wednesday.

"I believe Dr. Weiss was one of the conspirators and that he was selected by lot as the assassin. I believe if he had been carried out his assignment, he would have been dealt with by other conspirators."

"We are pressing an investigation along these lines."

The jury of death sounds more fantastic to an outsider than it does to Louisianians because they know anything was possible due to the strong passions that Long aroused in the hearts of men.

Fight for the Throne. With the battle royal for Long's power progressing, two men loomed today as the likeliest candidates. They will rule—if they do—not in the center.

Britain Pours New Troops in Malta

Strengthens Mediterranean Post—Ethiopian War Scheduled Oct. 10

LONDON, Eng.—(AP)—Great Britain is rushing additional troops to reinforce its garrisons at Malta, strategic post in the Mediterranean, a high source disclosed Thursday.

Italy Disregards France. ROME, Italy.—(AP)—Well informed sources said Thursday that Italy will go ahead with her Ethiopian campaign no matter what attitude France may adopt.

War by October 10? ROME, Italy.—(AP)—Italy lightened the ties between her land and sea forces in and near East Africa Wednesday night as hints were heard in diplomatic circles that October 10 might be the "zero hour" for hostilities with Ethiopia.

Provisions were announced for close collaboration between the fleet in the Red sea, the Gulf of Aden and the Indian ocean, and Gen. Emilio de Bono, who is high commissioner of Eritrea and Somaliland and commander of Italo's troops there.

Military men described the provisions as a preparatory move to the closest co-operation between the navy and the army when—and if—an Italian Ethiopia war begins.

As for speculation concerning the "zero hour," diplomatic information said their word concerning the October 10 date came from government sources.

No Ruling Yet on Hauptmann Appeal

Bruno's Case Not Scheduled for Action Thursday in New Jersey

TRENTON, N. J.—(AP)—Chancellor Luther A. Campbell said the Court of Errors and Appeals would not rule Thursday on Bruno Richard Hauptmann's case.

The chancellor said Hauptmann's appeal from his conviction as the kidnap murderer of the Lindbergh baby had not yet been considered in the court's conference, and he did not know whether it would be discussed later Thursday during the opening conference session of the court's fall term.

YOUR HEALTH

By DR. MORRIS FISHEIN
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

Typhoid is a menace against which constant vigilance must be exerted. In a timely and interesting series of four articles, of which this is the second, Dr. Morris Fishbein tells what typhoid is, how it is caused, its symptoms, its course, and methods of treatment.

Typhoid Lurks Mainly In Polluted Water.

Typhoid fever is an acute infection caused by a germ known as the typhoid bacillus. This bacillus can be found in the blood of a person seriously ill with the disease, and, in 80 per cent of cases is found in stools or excretions of the sick.

The germ is spread from the sick person to those who are well by means of the excretions, by soiled food and clothing, and particularly by contaminated water and milk.

To a large extent typhoid fever may be spread by people who carry the disease. That is, ones who themselves have been sick and have recovered, but still have in their bodies germs which reside frequently in the intestinal tract and also in the gallbladder, and which may get out of those places and infect other people.

At one time many cases of typhoid fever were caused by the use of ice made from water in polluted streams. Today most ice used in this country is made artificially from clean water, and there is no danger of typhoid.

Milk used to be a common source of typhoid germs; and occasionally milk products, such as ice cream, butter, buttermilk, and cheese also were known to carry the germs.

Once, too, the eating of infected oysters was a prominent cause, because the oysters were developed in contaminated water. In fact, the best fattening grounds for oysters were known to be in and around sewers. Now the control of oyster breeding in uncontaminated water, and suitable methods for their storage and transmission, have largely eliminated the shellfish as a source of contagion.

Cases have been reported that were caused by the eating of raw vegetables which had been fertilized with contaminated materials or sprinkled with contaminated water.

It was thought for a while that flies were more responsible for spreading typhoid fever than any other cause, but today it is not believed that transmission by flies is an important item. However, the fly does feed filthily and may transmit any condition associated with the filth on which it feeds.

Without any question, contaminated water is the chief cause for the spreading of typhoid fever throughout the world. In some instances cross-connections have been found between sewage pipes and sources of water supply.

In other instances, leaks in old piping resulted in the spread of the germs from sewage carriers to pipes carrying the water supply. In making an investigation, sanitary engineers must be careful to detect every such possibility.

NEXT: Course of typhoid is long and serious.

A BOOK A DAY

By BRUCE CATTON

He Was Ruined, But It Was Rained Fun.

The chap who is forever being brought to disaster by women is either a tragic or a ludicrous figure, depending on the point of view, and he is the central figure of a great many books. What authors don't always see into remember is that the ruined gentlemen's troubles are generally of his own making, and that being ruined is actually a good deal of fun, while it lasts.

These reflections are provoked by a reading of William McFee's new novel, "The Beach Comber."

This book tells about a ship captain whom the women just will not leave alone. Wherever he goes some lady is forever tossing herself at his head, and then raising particular cain when he tries to slip out from under. As a result, his professional career is ruined.

Cardinals Again Save 1-Game Lead

Defeat Phillies While Chicago Cubs, 1 Game Behind, Also Win

ST. LOUIS, (AP)—Paul Dean pitched masterfully Wednesday against Philadelphia, and the Cardinals maintained their National League leadership by winning, 10 to 2. The Chicago Cubs kept pace one game behind by winning also.

Dean scattered seven Phillies hits, while his teammates chased Orville Jorgens, who defeated the Cardinals three times this year, out of the game in the third inning.

Virgil Davis, Cards catcher, started at bat, driving in five runs with three hits.

The Cardinals scored seven runs in their big third. Paul Dean started with a single, Martin Bled at bat, and Rethrick singled. Dean scored on Frick's single. After Medwick was passed purposely, Rethrick scored on a wild pitch. J. Collins hit to Chiriza, and when his throw to second hit Medwick, Frick scored. Davis tripled to center, scoring Medwick and J. Collins. Jorgens retired after pitching one ball to Terry Moore. Moore hit one of Mulcahy's offerings and reached second while Davis was being retired.

Duncker doubled to right field, scoring Moore. Dean, batting for the second time in the inning, singled again, scoring Duncker.

Davis, who tripled in the third, hit a home run in the previous inning with Medwick on base.

GLORIFYING YOURSELF

By Alicia Hart

Solving That Eighty Problem, How to Gain Yet Not Get Fat

Exercises and diets that make a girl gain weight in the right places and which turn sharp angles into soft curves seem to be as much in demand as reducing routines. The new fall clothes—soft, clinging and a good deal more all-revealing than they've been for many a year—apparently have made thin girls want to put on weight.

You should, of course, make a careful check of your measurements before you start your campaign for better curves. If you are under weight generally, remember that milk, starches and cereals will put on pounds and that regular hours help, too. Soldiers, nurses and others who have to live on set schedules invariably gain.

For instance, if you go to bed at 11 every night, get up at 7:30 each morning, have breakfast at eight, lunch at twelve-thirty and dinner at six-thirty, day after day for several weeks, you will take on weight, unless some other condition interferes. Meanwhile, do daily exercises or go in for some active sports to make the new flesh firm and solid.

If your hip and leg measurements please you, but your chest seems too thin, get busy with exercises that will develop the thin spots. Clasp your hands behind your head and, forcing elbows backward, lower the hands slowly until they are opposite the back of your neck and until your chest is elevated and its muscles stretched.

This routine will make your arms ache, naturally, but repeat it at least ten times each morning, making sure that your chest muscles get full benefit from your efforts.

Also for the chest are exercises that make use of a low bar. Stand on your toes with feet together and arms raised high above your head. Lower your body backwards until hands rest on the bar. This exercises the muscles across your chest.

Rowing is Muscle Maker. Rowing either on a boat on the water or on a machine on land, is a rowing machine, is excellent for the upper part of the body.

Skipping rope and running at the rhythmic gait track men use will do a good deal to make legs more shapely. Dancing, swimming, riding and bicycling will be helpful.

If you haven't time for sports which develop calves and thighs, do this exercise several times a day.

Lie flat on the floor, with heels together and arms outstretched at your sides. Quickly pull the left leg upward until left knee touches the chest. If this is impossible, use your arms to force the knee upward. Bounce to keep shoulders flat on the floor. Repeat twenty times bending first the left leg and then the right.

The day is done and the darkness falls from the wings of night. As a feather is wafted downward from an eagle in his flight. A feeling of sadness and longing. That is not akin to pain. And resembles sorrow only. As the mist resembles the rain. Come, read to me some poem. Some simple and heartfelt lay. That shall soothe this restless feeling. And banish the thoughts of day. Read from some humbler poet. Whose songs are gushed from his heart. As showers from the clouds of summer. Or tears from the eyes that start. Such songs have power to quiet. The restless pulse of care. And come like the benediction That follows after prayer. Then read from the treasured volume. The poem of thy choice. And lend to the rhyme of the poet. The beauty of thy voice. And the night shall be filled with music. And the cares that infest the day. Shall fold their tents like the Arabs. And as silently steal away.—H. W. L.

not a small one in Ethiopia. Out of its 10,000,000 people, probably half profess the Christian faith. But the darker races, the Gallas, the Danakils and the Somalis, do not. A considerable number of the people are pagans. But most of those who do not belong to the Christian church are Moslems. Ras Tafari made war upon Emperor Lij because he was supposed to have reverted to the Moslem faith of his fathers. But though a pious-practicing Christian himself, the Emperor has been clever enough to practice tolerance to all religions. Moreover, he has gone out of his way to weld the Moslem faith to the throne. Moslems hinder Italy.

The results since his trouble with Italy have been manifold. The Italian army has had difficulty in getting Moslem laborers from Egypt or the Somali coast. Furthermore, popular opinion in Egypt and most of the neighboring Moslem lands has been favorable to Ethiopia as against Italy. There was something rather pathetic in Selassie's recent abortive appeal to the United States to use its good offices in his present Italian imbroglio. The background is this: Knowing something of the various secret treaties France, Italy and Britain made re-

Here is a truckload of them being started on their way from an Italian port to the East African front. Italian commanders plan to use thousands of them in Ethiopia if war comes.

Mrs. Ed Velvin of Washington Dies

Pioneer Hempstead Woman Succumbs at 74—Burial Is Held Sunday

Mrs. Ed Velvin died at the family home at Washington Saturday, at age of 74. She had been in feeble health for a number of months and her death had been expected for several weeks.

Mrs. Velvin was a native of Mississippi, having been born at the town of Pine Ridge, that state, May 3, 1861. In 1881 she was married to Ed Velvin, who survives her. The family have been residents of Washington for 30 years or more, moving here from Oklahoma. At one time Mr. Velvin was sheriff of Hempstead county.

Mrs. Velvin was a lifelong member of the Methodist church. Funeral services were conducted from the Washington church Sunday afternoon by the Rev. F. F. Harrell, pastor; and burial was in the local cemetery.

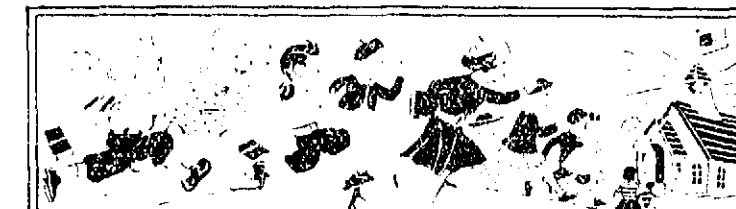

Surviving Mrs. Velvin besides her husband are seven children as follows: Glenn Velvin, Henderson, Texas; Harold F. Worley, Fred, John and Saxon of Washington; Mrs. M. C. Parsons and Mrs. Gladys Ervin of Washington; two brothers, T. M. Barlow of Fort Worth; Henry Barlow of Corsicana, Texas; and two sisters, Mrs. Florence Dina of Chicago; and Mrs. Tamey Gibson of Anquilla, Mississippi.

Crowds Continue at Gibson Revival

Origin of the Devil Is Revival Subject at City Hall Auditorium

There was a large crowd present Wednesday night to hear the Rev. Oscar Gibson preach on "The Devil." The Rev. Mr. Gibson showed how God "created the universe and man; how He placed man in the garden of Eden and made him a free moral agent, who knew right from wrong and made his own choice. Eve was made from a rib of Adam and placed in the garden as a help mate for Adam. The devil came along and put distrust in the mind of Eve and she ate of the forbidden fruit and gave to Adam and he also ate. This was the birth of sin. Who was that crafty individual who caused the first sin among the human family? He was the devil. Did God create him? No."

The Rev. Mr. Gibson showed how God created the angels with the same freedom of will that he created man and showed how they had a "thou shalt not." Lucifer, evidently one of the arch angels, wanted God's throne and reached out after it and other angels joined in the rebellion with him. He was cursed by God and became the devil of hell. God could not create the devil said the Rev. Mr. Gibson because the Bible says, "God is light, and in him is no darkness." 1 John 1:5.

The pastor read from Isaiah 14:12-14 showing the fall of Lucifer and what caused him to fall. His self will and self exaltation, were his undoing. God was no more responsible for the devil than he was for the sin of Adam and Eve—then he is for every lost soul that goes to hell.

A continuance of the devil will be the sermon subject for Thursday night. A drama of the Bible will be taken up, showing the warfare that went on for four thousand years: "How the Devil Tried to Stop the Birth of Christ."

Share-the-Wealth Agitation Waning

Says Roger W. Babson, Weighing Political Effect of Long's Death

WILLESLEY, Mass. — (AP) — What- ever political capital may accrue from Huey Long's death will benefit President Roosevelt and not the Republicans, in the opinion of Roger W. Babson, statistician.

Expressing the opinion in an answer prepared for a question at a session Wednesday at a national business conference at Babson Park.

"What effect will Huey Long's death have on the general political situation and on his share-the-wealth movement?" was the question.

Babson's answer was: "Whatever value lies in Huey Long's program will persist despite his sudden death. Personally, I consider his share-the-wealth movement was on the wane. His third party threat was also fading fast."

In other answers Babson referred to the president's "breathing spell" for the "act of a most whose supply of liquor has been entirely exhausted and who then proceeds to take the pledge."

Babson said he believed there would be a further rise in living costs in the next few months, and that the best outlook for sales since 1929 is "just ahead."

U.S. Resettlement Plans Are Ready

Farming Essentials, No Money, to Be Furnished for 2 to 5 Years

From Office of Resettlement Administration, Little Rock

Plans to expedite the rural rehabilitation program whereby farm families are being taken off relief rolls and helped to economic independence were announced today by the Resettlement Administration. T. Roy Reid, regional director of rural resettlement, also made public new regulations to govern extension of rehabilitation advances.

Farm families, now on relief rolls, or farm families which have exhausted all credit resources in an attempt to keep off relief, are eligible to apply for rehabilitation loans. Families will be selected on the basis of experience, character and ability to conduct farming operations.

Loans Must Be Repaid—

"The purpose of these rehabilitation loans," Mr. Reid said, "is to prevent farm families from having to receive relief. We are extending loans to families which satisfy the Resettlement Administration both of their desire, and ability to become self-supporting if they receive some small assistance in the form of a loan with which to carry on farming operations. Funds which the Resettlement Administration is advancing will be properly secured and will have to be repaid."

In Region Six, covering Arkansas, Mississippi and Louisiana, 65,403 families are now receiving such aid from the rehabilitation program formulated last year by the FEHA. The average loan per family amounts to approximately $200. Families accepted under the past program have been transferred to the Resettlement Administration, and will continue to receive loans in accordance with previous agreements.

New Loans Considered—

Additional applications for rehabilitation loans are now being considered. Careful investigations are made of each applicant's assets and record before action is taken on the application.

Individual Planning—

"The nature of the program," said Mr. Reid, "demands the closest personal attention to each family's problems. The extension of a loan should make it possible for the client to not only become self-supporting, but to repay the loan. Consequently, in each county the county farm agent will cooperate with rural resettlement representatives in working out a sound management plan which will offer the best opportunity for profit. Loans will be extended only after all details covering the investing of money, and a plan of repayment, have been worked out."

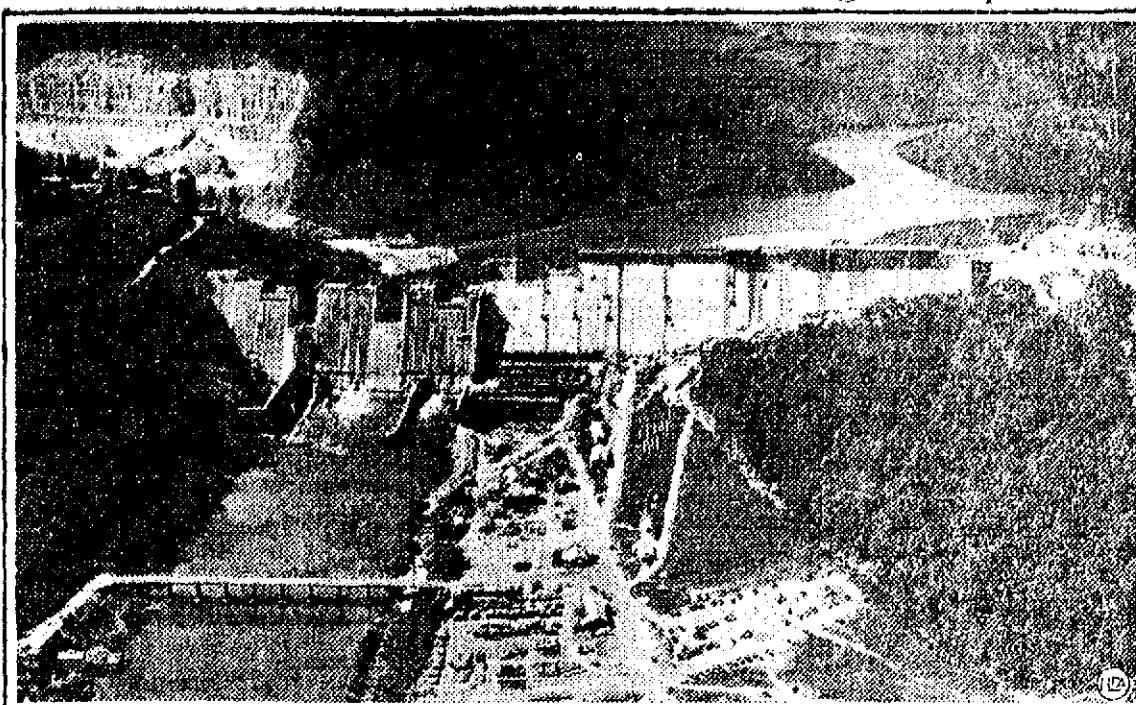

If the individual farm plans require it, farmers will be financed with loans to purchase farm tools, livestock, feed, fertilizer, building material, and other capital goods. When necessary, loans may be utilized for the payment of operating expenses, including land, rent, farm labor, breeding fees, as well as for house food and clothing.

Good Land Is Required—

"We are not going to extend loans to help families try to make a living on submarginal land," Mr. Reid emphasized. "Good farm land is the first requisite in carrying out a practical farm operation such as these rehabilitation plans constitute."

Rehabilitation loans will be extended for terms probably ranging from two to five years. Five per cent interest will be charged. Amortization plans in general will provide for repayment of the principal in two to five equal installments.

Air View Shows Norris Dam Nearing Completion

Revealing the remarkable progress already achieved at Norris Dam, in East Tennessee, this exclusive air view shows the $24,000,000 project as it appears today almost completed. More than 100,000 cubic yards of concrete have been poured. Several hundred feet of the east abutment (at right) have already been built. And the water behind the dam, formerly a tiny stream called Crook creek, is now a river 50 feet deep. To avoid obstructing road and bridge clearance in the reservoir, excess water, as shown, is allowed to flow through sluice-gates in the dam. The quarry from which the necessary concrete was blasted is pictured at top left.

DuPonts Are True U. S. Money Kings

This Family Maintains Power Because Ruled by One Clan Leader

NEW YORK — The outstanding money kings of America are not, as newspaper readers might suppose, the Rockefellers, the Fords, the Morgans or the Mellons, but the du Ponts of Delaware, it is said by John Winkler, biographer of American industrialists and financiers.

Mr. Winkler has added "the du Pont Dynasty" to the list. It was published Wednesday.

One reason the du Ponts have been able to maintain and increase their vast wealth and power, Mr. Winkler continues, is that they have "always been ruled by one overlord, the clan chieftain."

Deep Test Planned Near Washington

Prairie Mound Co. May Go Forward with 4,000-Foot Oil Quest

H. W. Biggs of the Prairie Mound Oil Company, which holds a block of acreage north and west of Washington, announces this week that his company is going forward with plans for a 4,000 foot test well on the block, to begin not later than November 1.

The first plan of the company was to drill a comparatively shallow test well, about 2,300 to 2,500 feet, but the decision has since been made to carry the well to a greater depth. No well has ever been drilled in this section to a greater depth than 2,500 feet, and by going to 4,000 feet the company will be able to thoroughly determine whether there is an oil bearing sand below where the Trinity is supposed to be, at about 2,300.

Mr. Biggs advises that for the deeper test a heavier rig will be required and that the outfit which is to be used is now in use, and will not be available until sometime in October. It has been the intention of the company for the past month or more to begin local operations not later than September 15, but due to the decision to go to the greater depth, which necessitated a heavier rig, the well cannot be commenced until this rig is available.

The company holds several short-term leases, expiring on October 1, Mr. Biggs states, and an effort will be made to extend these leases to cover the spudding in which is expected to be the latter part of October. Mr. Biggs says that the decision to go to the 4,000 foot depth is the cause of the delay in operations; but he believes the deeper test will be much more satisfactory than will be one to the 2,500 foot level, and he is of the opinion that the landowners granting the short term leases will be willing to extend their time in order to get the deep test.

Play to Be Given for Washington

'Black-Eyed Susan' Scheduled Next Thursday and Friday Nights

The ladies of the Baptist church will present the musical comedy, "Black-Eyed Susan" at the Washington High School auditorium on both Thursday and Friday nights of next week, it is announced.

The play will be presented by a cast of local grown-ups and promises to be one of the best musical comedies to be played here in a long time, the ladies say.

The play will be centered around five old maids who want to "get their man." The sponsors invite you to come and see how they do it.

In addition to the play a baby contest will be a feature of the performances. Local babies are to be entered in this.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief Of Pain

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are one of Nature's chief ways of taking the acids and waste out of the blood. If they don't pass 3 pints a day and so get rid of more than 3 pounds of waste matter, your 15 miles of kidney tubes may need flushing.

If you have trouble with frequent bladder passages with scanty amount which often smart and burn, the 15 miles of kidney tubes may need flushing out. This danger signal may be the beginning of nagging backache, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes and dizziness.

LITTLE ROCK—A school director is not prohibited from selling wood to his school district when his bid is the lowest submitted in open, competitive bidding, Attorney General Carl E. Bailey said Wednesday in an opinion written for G. C. Floyd, director of school law and finance.

The opinion, written by J. F. Koone, assistant attorney general, explained that Act 169 of 1931 prohibits directors from interested themselves directly or indirectly in contracts made by the district except when contracts are awarded to the lowest bidder on an open and competitive basis.

Alabama Pension Bill to Be Signed

Unemployment Insurance Also Feature of State Social Security Act

MONTGOMERY, Ala. — (AP) — The state's social security legislation—old age pensions and unemployment insurance—were en route to Gov. Bibb Graves' desk Wednesday.

The governor has announced he will sign both measures.

The old age pension bill specifies that persons 65 and more should begin receiving aid in 1936 provided they qualify as needy and dependents. Originally the senate set the age at 70 until 1940, but concurred Tuesday in the 65-year house amendment. Maximum benefits of $30 per month are included in the old age pension act. The unemployment insurance permits maximum payments of $15 weekly for 16 weeks for persons losing their jobs through no fault of their own.

Only One Side Is Heard in Pardons

Futrell Criticizes Clemency System—Should Provide Investigation

LITTLE ROCK.—The present system of clemency for law violators in Arkansas is "all wrong" in the opinion of Governor Futrell, who said Wednesday that only "one side" of criminal cases is presented for his attention when applications are made for pardons and paroles.

"The governor should have some means of conducting a thorough investigation into each case and providing careful supervision of each prisoner after a furlough is granted," the governor said. However, he pointed out that there is no authority under the law for such a set-up.

The governor suggested that circuit judges and other trial judges could aid him in deciding clemency cases by offering a brief review of each case they recommend, giving details of the crime involved. Clemencies must be recommended by the prosecuting attorney, judge and other officials and citizens under the governor's present system of extending clemencies.

He made his condemnation of the existing clemency system following an extended conference with J. Gilbert Leigh, foreman of the Pulaski county Grand Jury, which will make its final report to Judge McClellan in First Division Circuit Court Monday.

The Grand Jury during its investigation has kept an accurate check on the number of paroled and furloughed prisoners against whom indictments have been returned in Pulaski county since March and the survey was believed to have been the subject of Mr. Leigh's conference with the governor. The grand jury is expected to include its findings on the parole and furlough system in its report together with recommendations for legislative changes.

HOLLYWOOD GOSSIP

—BY DAN THOMAS—

Clothes: Cleaning Big Business in Filmdom

HOLLYWOOD.—The lowly clothes cleaning business is one of the most important in the film business.

The "we clean and press 'em" boys who serve the studios juggle thousands of dollars' worth of clothes daily in their apparatus. And upon every move precariously hang thousands of dollars of production costs in the making of pictures.

Usually employed directly by the studios, the experts clean valuable kowtens, press swanky evening jackets, freshen them, remove stains and repair wear and tear. Most of the work is done at night, in a period of 12 hours or less, with the following day's studio work dependent upon their success.

In the Paramount studio recently, in a scene from Bing Crosby's latest picture, "Two for Tonight," nearly 100 men and women extras spent six days being sprayed with seltzer water.

Each day the entire group, headed by Crosby, had to report spot and span as though they had just arrived at the night club in which the action takes place.

To do this the studio cleaners worked frantically each night, cleaning and pressing and removing the ravages of the seltzer water. Unpressed suits and dirty gowns, of course, would have caused delay and sent production costs climbing.

Talk French or Starve

Walter Connolly is learning how to converse in French in preference to developing a boarding house reach. Nedra Harrison, the actor's wife, is teaching their 12-year-old daughter, Ann, how to speak the language.

As part of the instruction she has ordered only French to be spoken at meal times. Before either Mrs. Connolly or Ann will pass various dishes, Walter must make the request in French. And if he can't say the right words, it's just too bad.

At Another Child Wonder

Just 9 years old, red-headed Bennie Bartlett is Hollywood's newest screen "find." A student at Sunset School in Venice, Calif., Bennie was seen by a Paramount talent scout. A screen test followed and the youngster was signed to a long-term contract.

Born in Independence, Kan., of theatrical parents, Bennie isn't far from being a child wonder. At the age of 1 he was directing a dance band in Kansas. And at the age of 7 he composed the music for "The Old-Fashioned Mill," popular dance number a few months ago.

Cut Head to Save Hide

Director David Howard was making a scene for "Thunder Mountain" in which George O'Brien plays the leading role. The action called for a close-up of a baby mountain lion that had been partially buried in a landslide.

The cub chosen for the scene turned out to be a hissing, spitting whelp with the temperament of a prima donna suffering from a bad cold. Howard made several attempts to induce the rebellious animal to enote, received a painful clawing for his efforts, and then took time out to nurse his wounds and powder the situation.

Finally he hit upon a solution. He used a lawn for the scene.

BATON ROUGE, La.—(AP)—The power of pretty Alice Lee Grosjean, handler of millions in state funds for Huey Long, was accounted negligible Wednesday as a result of Long's death.

The petit supervisor of public accounts, an office Long created to handle state funds without supervision from anyone, was first appointed by Long and then reappointed by Gov. O. K. Allen at Long's command.

Miss Grosjean's political fortune closely paralleled that of Long whom she served as secretary when Long became governor in 1928.

With the death of James J. Balfour, secretary of state in 1930, Long named Miss Grosjean to the post to serve payment of a subsidy to cotton farmers this year should cost the government not more than $75,000,000.

Farmers who signed adjustment contracts in 1935 and who agreed to sign contracts in 1936 will receive as a subsidy the difference, if any, between 12 cents a pound and the average price for middling seven-eighths-inch cotton on the 10 spot markets the day the cotton is sold.

However, payment will not exceed two cents a pound and will be made only on middling seven-eighths-inch cotton actually produced under the farmers' individual Bankhead allotments.

Wallace said funds for the subsidy will be taken from the 30 per cent of the gross customs receipts allotted to the Farm Administration by the AAA amendments. At present rate of collection, this amounts to more than $100,000,000 annually.

Wallace explained that if the day average price for the entire season should be 10 1/2 cents a pound, the subsidy would cost a maximum of $70,000,000 to $75,000,000. The country's Bankhead allotment is 10,500,000 bales.

However, if any producer sold his cotton on a day when the price was 12 cents or more a pound, he would receive no subsidy.

Farm Income This

included the livestock purchases in estimating the total cash farm income.

During the first six months of 1935, cash income from farm marketings in the United States totaled $2,670,000,000 compared to $2,466,000,000 for the same period of 1934.

Income from livestock and livestock products was reported to total $1,699,000,000, an increase of more than $300,000,000 over the first six months of 1934. Rental and benefit payments under the AAA programs during the first six months of the year were $285,000,000 compared to $149,000,000 for the same period last year.

Officials said the improvement in income from livestock and livestock products probably will continue through the last half of 1935, although the increase may not be as great.

"The demand for farm products in the last half of 1935," an official said, "as measured by industrial activity and industrial workers' incomes promises to be somewhat higher than a year ago."

Experiment Farm Program Sept. 18

Fall Pasture Meeting Will Be Held at Station Next Wednesday

The annual fall pasture meeting will be held at the Fruit & Truck Branch Experiment Station Wednesday afternoon, September 18, at 2 p. m., states G. W. Ware, assistant director in charge of the station.

The station farm is doing considerable experimental work with grasses and legumes and various plant combinations. Poor sub-marginal lands have been developed into valuable permanent pastures. Barren eroded soils have been changed to smooth soils of grazing materials. The following program includes many interesting and valuable demonstrations and discussions:

1. A good pasture for every farm. Frank Stanton, Hempstead county farm agent.
2. When and how to plant grasses and clovers. D. J. Burleson, extension agronomist.
3. Establishing large pastures at little cost. E. H. Vavre, Pulaski county farmer.
4. Livestock feeding and general management. M. W. Muldrow, Extension livestock specialist.
5. Terracing pastures for soil and water conservation. Sam Dameron, technical assistant, Fruit and Truck Branch Experiment station.
6. Pasture management. G. W. Ware, assistant director, fruit and truck branch experiment station.

All interested persons are invited to attend this timely meeting.
